

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

MEMPHIS, TENN., TUESDAY, JULY 6, 1886.

VOL. XLVI--NO. 159.

GLADSTONIANS ELATED OVER THEIR DECISIVE VICTORY AT DUNDREE.

A Number of Parnellites Returned
Without Opposition--The Latest Election Returns.

LONDON, July 5.—The Gladstonians are elated over the decisive character of their victory in Dundee. They are confident they will maintain their hold in Scotland. The Gladstonians agents report that the agricultural vote is safe for the Ministerial party. They say that the laborers' meetings show unabated faith in Mr. Gladstone and a concurrence in the belief that the granting of home rule to Ireland would relieve the English market of Irish labor. Mr. Jesse Collins will stump the mid and counties and try to persuade the laborers to the contrary. The Gladstonian prospects in the metropolis are dark, as the Liberal Unionists are giving a warm support to the Conservatives.

ADDITIONAL RETURNS.
The following Parliamentary candidates have been returned without opposition: Mr. J. Lane Parnell, East Division, Cork; J. F. Finucane, Parnellite, East Division, Limerick; C. D. Reilly, Parnellite, North Division, Tipperary; John Hooper, Parnellite, South Division, Tipperary; T. Saiton, Parnellite, South Division, Tipperary; John E. Redmond, Parnellite, North Division; W. E. Ford, W. E. Harrington, Parnellite, West Division, Kerry; M. Harris, Parnellite, East Division, Galway; J. Cox, Parnellite, East Division, Clare; J. Chalmers, Parnellite, Middle Division, Cork.

In Northampton Mr. Labouchere and Mr. Bradlaugh, Gladstonians, were elected over Mr. Turner, Unionist, and Mr. Lees, Conservative. The vote was: Labouchere, 4570; Bradlaugh, 4382; Turner, 3584; Lees, 3436. Thus far Mr. Bradlaugh is the only candidate who has polled more votes than at the last election; his vote last autumn was 4315.

TOTAL ELECTIONS.
Up to 10 o'clock to-night the totals of members elected were: 156 Conservatives, thirty Unionists, fifty-nine Gladstonians and twenty-nine Parnellites. The Conservatives have gained seventeen seats, the Unionists one seat and the Gladstonians nine seats. The Tories unexpectedly won in South Lincolnshire, where the Gladstonian candidate, owing to sudden illness, failed to qualify.

ELECTION ROW.
During a fracas at a polling station in the St. Stephens Green Division of Dublin, Messrs. Dudgeon, James and Sullivan, solicitors, and agents of the Conservative candidate, Mr. Dudgeon by the Sheriff's orders, Mr. Dudgeon will sue the Sheriff for assault.

MR. GLADSTONE
has written a letter in which he says it is impossible for British legislation to proceed until the Irish question is settled.

Monster Home Rule Meeting at New York.

New York, July 5.—A meeting attended by about 20,000 persons was held this afternoon at Union Square under the auspices of the Central Labor Union. The gathering was of workingmen, and the purpose was to appeal to the workmen of Great Britain and Ireland to support by their vote the candidates for members of Parliament who are pledged to the cause of home rule. Among the organizations that attended in bodies were 10,000 members of the Ale and Porter Brewers' Association, 3,000 members of the Shoemakers' Protective Association, 3,000 Progressive Assembly No. 2 of Laborers, 3,000 of the Association of Wood Carvers, 2,000 of the United Operators' Union, 1,000 of the United Pressmen's unions, 1,200 of the United Tailors' unions, 400 of the Association of longshoremen, 20,000 united brass workers, 10,000 united tailors of children's jackets, 5,000 operative plasterers, 1,000 tin and slate roofers and 1,000 marble workers. There was speaking from four stands. From one of them Grand Master Workman Powderly was to have delivered an address, but was forced to send a telegram of regret at his inability to do so.

An appeal to the workmen of Great Britain and Ireland was adopted. It expressed intense interest in the home rule movement for Ireland, referred to the sympathy of the British workingmen for the United States in its recent struggle, of the happily restored good feeling between the North and South, the result of home rule for the States, and calling on the voters of Great Britain to grant to Ireland the same autonomy as most earnestly calculated to engender a spirit of love and patriotic pride in the mother country, and build up a community of feeling with the people of the United States, making a union of the English speaking nations with untold power for good in its influence on the world.

Among those who spoke was Henry George, who was received with great enthusiasm. He referred to the policy of home rule in allaying sectional strife and animosity in this country. The people of the United States were believers in home rule because they had tried it. The autonomy of Ireland was desired as much for England's sake as for Ireland's. He paid warm tribute to Gladstone and Parnell.

Secretary Manning's Cordial Welcome by the President.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Secretary Manning, accompanied by his wife and daughter, his private secretary, Mr. Brennan, and Mr. Miller, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, arrived in this city on the late train last night from Hot Springs, Va. The Secretary stood the long carriage drive of twenty miles over the mountains and the subsequent railway trip with untold fatigue and inconvenience. The train bearing the Secretary and his party was boarded near the paper by United States Treasurer Jordan, who brought with him the latest department news and a basket of choice flowers for the Secretary. There was about an hour before the train arrived here. The President, Postmaster General and Mrs. Vail, Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Vail, Private Secretary Lamont and a number of officials of the Treasury Department were awaiting its arrival and boarded the Secretary's car. Quite a reception followed, the Secretary shaking hands with, and receiving the congratulations of all the visitors.

for about ten minutes, after which he retired with the President to one of the staterooms, where the two had a long talk. When the President left the car it was attached to the New York train. Treasurer Jordan accompanied the Secretary to New York, where Mr. Manning and his family will remain for two or three days before going to the Secretary's residence in Albany. The President's valet carried to the train a magnificent basket of flowers for the Secretary. Mr. Manning seems to have almost entirely recovered from his recent ailment, and it is thought he will appear in excellent spirits.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.

ATTACK ON COL. BROWER OF THE "GAZETTE."

Serious Outbreak Among the Hands
on Col. Sam Tate's Plantation.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.)

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., July 5.—About 6 o'clock this evening, as Col. D. A. Brower, managing editor of the Arkansas Gazette, was standing in front of Wilson and Webb's Main street stationery store, conversing with a number of friends, a young man, seventeen or eighteen years of age, approached him, armed with a heavy bludgeon and demanded that he (Brower) retract certain articles published about "my father." "Who is your father?" was asked him. "Dr. Winfield," was his reply. "Then the controversy is with your father and not with you," remarked Col. Brower. On this reply he was given the youth made a deadly pass at Mr. Brower but was frustrated in his purpose by being caught by the shoulders and pushed backwards. Then followed a regular cat and dog fight for a few moments, neither party, however, getting an opportunity of doing the other serious injury. Young Winfield is physically larger than his antagonist, and had the chance been given him would undoubtedly have inflicted some painful wounds with his club, but Mr. Brower was too quick in his actions and personal friends interfered and separated them. The trouble grew out of a controversy published in Sunday's Gazette condemning certain charges printed in Dr. Winfield's paper last week about the Gazette and its management. Winfield edits a Methodist organ here, but has left his position as head of his flock to dabble in politics, and in his little efforts made allusion to the past course of the Gazette, which caused Col. Brower to literally burn the old man up on Sunday. Young Winfield was put under bond to keep the peace.

SERIOUS OUTBREAK AMONG FARM HANDS.
This city was thrown into the wildest excitement about noon today when being learned that the hands on Col. Sam Tate's plantation, some nine miles below this city, on the Arkansas river, were on a strike for higher wages, and a posse of citizens had been sent for by Sheriff Wainman, who was at the scene of the trouble at an early hour this morning. A posse of thirty or forty men, all armed to the teeth, were soon organized and left in transfer wagons for the fighting ground. On Thursday thirty of the forty men crossed over on this plantation quit work, telling their managers, the Fox brothers, that their cotton was extremely dirty, and that unless they immediately raised their wages to $1 per day they would quit work, and no one but a hand would be permitted to work. The men were getting 75 cents per day. The thirty belligerents used every known endeavor to induce the remaining ten men to quit work, but without avail. All day Saturday and Sunday they argued with them, but no argument that could be presented had any effect, and violence was threatened. The trouble got noised about adjoining plantations and its force of disgruntled darkies began to grow larger. Whiskey was used, and a big, burly negro, addressed his fellow-laborers, telling them that they had gone into the trouble for the purpose of winning, and that if Sheriff Worthen came down to quell them he would not get him nor his posse. The leaders of the trouble, and had subjected the hands on the plantation into their way of thinking, when a courier was dispatched to this city for Sheriff Worthen, and a posse to repair to the place and put down the impending riot. This messenger reached here last night, and the Sheriff and two or three deputies reached the war ground at 5 o'clock this morning and Hugh Gill's threat was to the Sheriff, and that officer having a fondness for trouble, at once made for Gill's cabin. He knuckled at the door and was answered by the billy darkey opening the door. "Worthen is my name," said the Sheriff of this county, "and I want you to come with me now." The situation given the astonished negro. But Gill never quailed, on the contrary, he made for his shotgun which stood in the corner of the cabin, but Sheriff Worthen got a bead on him before he could reach his weapon, and sent a bullet crashing through both of the negro's arms. Gill fell, and in less than it takes to tell it, the officer had him shackled and made Gill's house his headquarters. He immediately sent to the city for a fresh horse and a man to load some more like a sure enough was on hand. The posse, all armed to the teeth, went through the streets because the wages contained most of Little Rock's dead game men. The Sheriff's arrival created consternation in the camp, and the negro instant began moving themselves. About this time the Warthen regulars rode up and at once went to the belligerent Sheriff's relief. Your correspondent is the only person who returned from the front tonight, and trouble was momentarily expected when he left, at 10 o'clock. The posse has charge of the Fox residence, where they are securely barricaded. Trouble was instigated by the colored Knights of Labor, and it is feared that a race war is brewing. The negroes have been urged to demand their rights, and it is thought this is only the precursor of something worse that is soon to follow.

HAVE USED Tongaline, with marked benefit in neuralgia, and obtained relief when a number of the ordinary remedies had failed.
